Deafness Cannot be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Why A Painter?

HARRY L. WHITESELL, OHIO.

Why as a general rule are painters considered by the public to be a worthless, good-for-nothing set of men? Can it be that they really are? Being a painter myself, I naturally would answer in the negative.

I remember distinctly an incident that happened in August of this year which prompts me to write this article.

A baby boy came into my home to gladden the lives of his father and mother and I will say has so wonderfully changed conditions that it seems to me impossible for people to live without one in their home.

At the time I was painting a fine dwelling in the residence district of this city for a very prosperous business man. His wife and daughter were asking me concerning my boy and what business I intended starting him in and after some conversation which was practically worthless, one of the ladies stuck up her lip in a slurring manner and remarked that he would probably be a "painter." Well, I said no more, but have wondered many times since why some people hold the painter in such low esteem.

We painters of to-day surely do not care to leave people under the impression of long ago, that it only takes a little paint on one end of the brush and a fool at the other. We know there is something to learn and something worth learning.

It hasn't been so long ago that the public were inclined to look upon the painter as a man to be pitied, as a poor brainless creature, not capable of doing anything but spreading some nasty, poisonous, foul-smelling compounds, a business which would in time impair his health and eventually kill him and then there would be nothing missed only a painter.

To-day we think there is quite a change yet we may be unable in a way to convince some.

We know of painters who are the main end of our large paint and varnish factories. We know of painters who are associated with the travelling public.

Why? Because painting has become a science. It takes more than a fool now to become a successful painter. He must be versed in all the mysteries of his calling, well skilled in all the technical details of his profession, competent to superintend the most extensive operations, artistic in temperament, thoroughly trained as a decorator and a thorough knowledge of business principles.

It has been well said that, "the wife's first thought is the decoration of the home, and as her possibilities in this direction are large or small, so will the life of the family to a great extent have more or less refinement."

Upon whom does this decorating depend? The painter, to be sure.

So, if there is only one good thought for us at present, let us live in hopes of a few more in the future. Let's admit our shortcomings, we are not perfect, neither is any one else.

We can be honorable if we are painters. We are fools no more, really never were. So far as honor is concerned, I am as willing for my boy to become a painter as to see him enter into any business which any critic could consider honorable. Don't be ashamed of your business if you are a painter. — Published by request.

Woman's Power

Over Man

Woman's most glorious endowment is the power to awaken and hold the pure and honest love of a worthy man. When she loses it and still loves on, no one in the wide world can know the heart agony she endures. The woman who suffers from weakness and derangement of her special womanly organism soon loses the power to sway the heart of a man. Her general health suffers and she loses her good looks, her attractiveness, her amiability and her power and prestige as a woman. Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., with the assistance of his staff of able physicians, has prescribed for and cured many thousands of women. He has devised a successful remedy for woman's ailments. It is known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a positive specific for the weaknesses and disorders peculiar to women. It purifies, regulates, strengthens and heals. Medicine dealers sell it. No honest dealer will advise you to accept a substitute in order to make a little larger profit.

Cemetery Association

The annual election of officers of the Ladies' Cemetery Association was held Feb. 16. The following were elected for the ensuing year: Mrs. Tom McClaugherty, President; Mrs. H. J. Meyer, Vice-president; Mrs. R. H. Hudspeth, Treasurer; Mrs. T. C. Barnes, recording secretary; Mrs. Ella Woolls, Corresponding secretary.

The following are a few things accomplished in 1910: Grubbing new Cemetery, Two seats and trusses for each Cemetery, topped trees, hauled gravel out of old Cemetery, filled in all holes and low places in new Cemetery and paid our sexton to date $168.75. Our next move will be to put good fences around the Cemeteries. The cattle are grazing and walking over the graves of our dead in the old Cemetery.

The ladies will appreciate any donation to this cause. Our only means of raising money is ten cents per month membership fee. Pay up your dues and help in this work. All graves are cared for, whether you help or not, even if the active members have to serve dinners to raise money to do so.

Every one who has loved ones buried in either of the City Cemeteries are especially invited to become members and help in this work.

MRS. R. H. HUDSPETH,
Treas. Ladies' Cemetery Assn.

Woman Beat Two Men

We suspect you'd like the tale, how a woman beat two hardware dealers in Girard, Pa.

Devoe salesman tried his best to get those men to sell Devoe lead-and-zinc in that bright town; and failed. Reluctantly took Mrs. E. R. Bowman, druggist.

They said they couldn't sell paint for more than $1.25 a gallon. Mrs. Bowman can. She has sold about all the paint that has been sold there since.

She knew Devoe; had sold his artists' materials. Had some sense and force, besides; she easily learned that cheap is dear in paint, and told the people.

Mr. Burt Young bought a gallon Devoe for rooms that had always taken a gallon of other paint; had half left.

Mr. John Hanna, grocer, thought it expensive before he bought it; brought back nearly half of his paint, and said it was the cheapest job he ever had.

Mrs. Bowman reports universal satisfaction. So much for a cheap-paint town with a bright woman in it. Holoway Bros.

Died.

Mr. W. E. Newton died at his home in the north part of town Tuesday morning, February 21, 1911, after a protracted illness with Bright's disease. His remains were interred Wednesday afternoon in the new cemetery, his pastor, Rev. M. L. Darby, of the local Methodist church, officiating at the obsequies.

The deceased was born in Mississippi in 1850 and was, therefore, in his sixtieth year at the time of his demise. He came to Texas at the early age of 6 years with his family. In the early '70s he settled in the southern part of Medina county, where he prospered in the stock farming and mercantile business, amassing a comfortable fortune and rearing a family of seven children to a grown.

Mr. Newton only recently bought property in Hondo, built a commodious residence and moved into it, but was not destined to long enjoy his well-earned comfort and ease, as the disease from which he died had already fastened its tentacles irrevocably upon him.

He was a prominent member of the Methodist church, taking an active part in all its affairs, and those who knew him all speak in highest terms of his sterling worth as a man and a citizen.

We regret that our limited acquaintance with the deceased and the fact that we have not been furnished with sufficient data preclude a more extended notice of the deceased.

Here Soon.

Retaining all the features which made minstrels so popular in the days of Christy, Schoolcraft, Emerson, Backus, Wanbold and Emmett, yet replete with novelties of the present day and fully keeping pace with public demand, the big fun-making organization, Richards & Pringle's Famous Georgia Minstrels will appear at the Auditorium on Saturday, March 4th.

"The oldest and best" is the title bestowed upon them by an amusement-loving public. That they have fulfilled this appellation, the longevity of their existence amply testifies.

Be on the lookout for the big parade at noon; it's worth watching.

New Fountain Notes.

BY NARRATOR.

ED ANVIL HERALD:

Owing to bad weather last Saturday night the program for the Quihi Literary Society has been postponed until Saturday night, March 4.

This section was blessed by a slow, soaking rain last Friday and Saturday nights, amounting to one inch of rain, and which has thoroughly moistened the ground, thereby giving the farmers a fair season in the ground this spring.

A cold norther blew up last Saturday night, after several weeks of unusually warm weather, and since then it has been regular hog-killing weather.

Tax Assessor H. B. Taylor of Hondo was here Saturday assessing taxes.

Charles Metzger of Hondo was a visitor to New Fountain Sunday.

Charles Grell and sister, Miss Linda, of Hondo were Quihi visitors Monday. County Superintendent W. N. Saathoff visited Prof. August Myres' school Monday.

George Balzen of Sturm Hill passed through New Fountain Tuesday en route to Medina's pretty capital.

Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Neumann of Quihi were Hondo visitors today.

W. G. Poehler marketed a load of hay in Hondo Tuesday.

H. G. Saathoff passed through New Fountain yesterday en route to Hondo.

Those who went to Hondo today to attend the show were D. Lindeburg and family, F. H. Bohlen and family, Elm Saathoff and family, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Senne, Messrs. Otto Grell, W. J. Brucks, Emil Boehle, Willie and Otto Schmidt and Miss Ernestina Schmidt.

Willie Hutzler was a Hondo visitor last Saturday.

Feb. 22, 1911.

Minstrels Coming.
Managers Gilliam & Woods of The Auditorium take pleasure in announcing that they have secured Richards & Pringle's Famous Georgia Minstrels for Saturday, March 4th.

This famous band of Funsters, like wine, appear to improve with age. For thirty years they have kept the whole world laughing and like Tennyson's "Brook," bid fair to "go on for ever."

The beautiful new First Part, The Palace of Revelry, is a dream of splendor and a feast for the eye. Extravagant adjectives do but slight justice to the scene-painter's art. This, together with the lighting effects and beautiful and expensive satin and silk costumes and settings, form a picture not soon to be forgotten, and represents an outlay of money that would stagger a minor attraction. The singing portion of the program is under a competent instructor, and you will hear the songs of the Southland sung with a spirit and fidelity true to the ante-bellum days.

But the good things do not end here. There are seven big vaudeville acts, two of which have never appeared with a minstrel company before.

The parade will take place promptly at noon. There will be a free band concert by the best minstrel band in the world at 7:30 o'clock in the evening in front of the theatre.

If you have dizzy spells, attacks of momentary blindness, with ringing noises in the ears it is an unfailing sign of a torpid liver; a condition which brings on some serious sickness—if neglected. ## ON THERE TO STAY

PATHOS IN INQUIRY THAT HAS RUNG THROUGH AGES.

How Many Billions of Times Has the Question, "What Will Take the Shine Off Men's Trousers?" Been Asked?

Newark, N. J.—Mr. Editor—Dear Sir: Kindly answer the following in the Evening News and oblige: What will take the shine off men's trousers?

Yours truly, INTERESTED.

Readers, do not smile. In this letter is a strain of the plaintive song that humanity has been singing ever since Adam went out looking for the first job. Eve sang such a song, and Ruth, and Lot's wife, and Job's wife, and the mother of Moses, and Bathsheba, and Elizabeth and Martha. All of the billions of women who have kept house on earth have sung this song, the song of poverty and self-denial and makeshift. What will keep the wolf from the door? What will keep the outgo within the income? What will take the shine off men's trousers? From creation to resurrection, the same old question. Taken as a symbol of universal need, this inquiry is no more ludicrous than the sob of an evicted mother, or the wail of her starving baby. Its eight words comprise a complete octave, and all other octaves on the human keyboard are its counterparts. The socialist thunders in heavy bass: "Let me share the wealth that I create." In treble the social climber calls: "How can I buy an automobile next summer?" It is the same tune, with variations, the world over.

It would not be so sad a tune if the men would sing it with the women. But the men won't. Eve must live face to face with it from sunrise to sunset, and it awaits her the next morning as fresh and as vivid as ever. Adam does all he can for the family and then the task is Eve's. She must take whatever he can do and do everything with that. The woman sees the shine spreading day by day, and, brooding over it, she seizes some rare moment of idleness to write to the editor. "What will take the shine off men's trousers?" No man would write such a query as that. The handwriting in the letter open here on the editor's desk is a woman's.

If the editor knew of anything that would take the shine of trousers, he would patent it and retire to enjoy the rich profits arising to him from that new burden on the monopoly-ridden world. But there is nothing in the universe that will perform the work desired. As well ask for a recipe for restoring the crimson blush to the faded rose. There is nothing that will take the shine off trousers, and it is right that this should be so. After grandmother, through years of toil and care, has earned her beautiful wrinkles, would it be smart or truthful or kind to paint her dear old face with some magic skin preparation and give her the looks of a girl of 20? We are proud of its outward signs. This is absurd and perverse, and it is absurd and perverse to be ashamed of the shine on a pair of trousers. If we would only look at things rightly we should see that the more shine on a pair of trousers the more honorable they are.

When this world's cares are over we expect to wear shining raiment through the rest of eternity. Why, then, should we be ashamed of shiny trousers now?—Newark News.

A Typographical Error.

Apropos of the printer's mistakes that provoke wrath and chagrin or amusement, according to the viewpoint of the reader, may be mentioned an incident relating to Dr. William Tod Helmuth of revered memory. Dr. Helmuth had been invited to give an address in New York and was introduced to the audience by J. Benjamin Dimmick, later mayor of Scranton. Mr. Dimmick in a happy way spoke of Dr. Helmuth as one who "had not had time to become the foremost man in his profession, but who also had taken time to woo all the nine muses," referring to the physician's versatility in art, music and poetry.

The printer, probably knowing little about the muse, gave the startling information in the report next morning that Dr. Helmuth "had taken time to woo all the nine nurses," apparently recalling the fact that nurses were likely to be about hospitals where the gues of the evening had been mentioned as a prominent feature.

The Alexander of the Jungle.

Bwanda Tumbo sat down upon a tussock by the trail side and wept large, scalding tears.

"Wherefore weepest, master of men?" quoth the sympathetic head hunter.

The great gunze looked up and his lip quivered.

"I weep, good Bo-zi Yambu," he sobfully replied, "because I can't think up any more funny names to give these new things I'm shooting!"

And he wept afresh.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Stella—What did he do?

Rita—Didn't I tell you? He made an awful fuss with me one season, and then asked me if I thought the dad would object to him as a son-in-law. I said no, I thought not, and he went away and proposed to my sister.—Illustrated Bits.

WORLD TAKES CARE OF ITSELF

Real Philosopher Does Not Worry Much Over the Terrible Plight of the Future.

One may ardently advocate the conservation of natural resources without losing rest in worrying about what we shall do for crossties when all forests are destroyed, or for warmth when coal is exhausted. It is really unwise to get hysterical over such troubles, so long as they are under contract for future delivery. None of us should be deficient in philosophy. The real philosopher is he who, having a sure tip that things are coming his way, smiles upon adversity with indulgence.

It is just as well to consider that by the time crossties material quits growing all the Pullmans will be in the air with all the berths upper, and that a thousand years from now, if the scarcity of coal runs the price up to $1,000 a ton, some miserable sinners of the present may have cause to rejoice in the prospect of lower temperatures.

The world is going to take care of itself and the guess that the little earth will be rocking along on schedule time a hundred thousand years hence is just as good as any other.

Why, therefore, worry? Why attempt to solve the puzzle of navigating the future of dreadnoughts too big for the sea; leave that to future Hobsons.

If the safe and sane people will just make up their minds to cultivate philosophy, and to practise it, many disturbing factors would be eliminated.

There is nothing like determining that it will work out all right;

it always does.

Mrs. Wheeler, Freetown, Ind.

Women get run down without knowing just what is the matter with them, and doctors don't seem to understand their case. Mrs. Isabelle Wheeler, Freetown, Ind., was nervous and debilitated and could find no help until she took Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepin, and that cured her. She says people came to her for miles around to ask what medicine she took that did her so much good. This remedy is absolutely guaranteed to do what is claimed, and if you want to try it before buying, send your address for a free sample bottle to Pepsin Syrup Co., 119 Caldwell Bldg., Monticello, Ill. It is sold by all druggists at 50¢ and $1 a bottle.

Women get almost as much fun out of a sensational divorce case as men out of a dog fight.

Wife Got Tip Top Advice.

"My wife wanted me to take our boy to the doctor to cure an ugly boil," writes D. Frankel, of Stroud, Okla. "I said 'put Bucklen's Arnica Salve on it.' She did so, and it cured the boil in a short time." Quickest healer of Burns, Scalds, Cuts, Corns, Bruises, Sprains, Swellings. Best Pile cure on earth. Try it. Only 25¢ at W. H. Windrow's.

It's easier to borrow from a new friend than it is to pay back what you owe an old one.

Falls Victim To Thieves.

S. W. Bends, of Coal City, Ala., has a justifiable grievance. Two thieves stole his health for twelve years. They were a liver and kidney trouble. Then Dr. King's New Life Pills throttled them. He's well now. Unrivaled for Constipation, Malaria, Headache and Dyspepsia. 25¢ at W. H. Windrow's.

One girl knows more about flirting than a whole regiment of soldiers know about fighting.

Sedentary habits, lack of outdoor exercise, insufficient mastication of food, constipation, a torpid liver, worry and anxiety, are the most common causes of stomach troubles. Correct your habits and take Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and you will soon be well again. For sale by all dealers.

Love making is one kind of a cold weather picnic.

Needed the Year Around.

You needn't suffer with sick headache, indigestion, constipation or any other trouble arising from disordered stomach, liver or bowels. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepin will cure you and keep you well. It is a wonderful laxative, and regulator. It is safe and pleasant to take and should be in every American household. Tens of thousands already use it. It is absolutely guaranteed to do what is claimed, and if you want to try it before buying, send your address for a free sample bottle to Pepsin Syrup Co., 119 Caldwell Bldg., Monticello, Ill. It is sold by all druggists at 50¢ and $1 a bottle.

Maybe a woman figures it out it is better to trust her husband because he might be worse if she didn't.—New York Press.

Tortured For 15 Years

by a cure-defying stomach trouble that baffled doctors, and resisted all remedies he tried. John W. Modders, of Moddersville, Mich., seemed doomed. He had to sell his farm and give up work. His neighbors said, "he can't live much longer." "Whatever I ate distressed me," he wrote, "till I tried Electric Bitters, which worked such wonders for me that I can now eat things I could not take for years. Its surely a grand remedy for stomach trouble." Just as good for the liver and kidneys. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50¢ at W. H. Windrow's.

It's the wise man who understands that the more he knows the more there is for him to learn.

A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Liniment and bound on to the affected parts is superior to any plaster. When troubled with lame back or pains in the side or chest give it a trial and you are certain to be more than pleased with the prompt relief which it affords. Sold by all dealers.

Chest pains and a dry, hacking cough should be treated with Ballard's Horehound Syrup taken internally, and a Herrick's Red Pepper Porous Plaster applied to the chest. Buy the dollar size Horehound Syrup; you get a Porous Plaster free with each bottle. Sold by W. H. Windrow.

It doesn't increase the size of anything to look at it through a magnifying glass.

When her child is in danger a mother will risk her life to protect it. No great act of heroism or risk of life is necessary to protect a child from croup. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and all danger is avoided. For sale by all dealers.

A good deal of hospitality is administered according to the homeopathic school.

They work in nature's own way. They do not merely flush the bowels but tone up the liver and stomach to fulfill their proper functions. So mild are they that one hardly realizes that they have taken medicine. Chamberlain's Tablets can be relied upon to relieve biliousness, indigestion, constipation and dizziness, anywhere. ## Millicent's Masquerade

By Martha McCulloch-Williams

(Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.)

Behind the frowning providence of a sudden summer rainstorm, Fate hid for Millicent Ware a smiling face. She stood in the uncertain shelter of a roadside elm, trying vainly to shield her hat with a ridiculous parasol, and speculating what chance had such an object as she knew she looked of getting the place she sought.

To be exact, the place was that of nursery governess in the Alstyne family—the agency had sent her on the barest long chance. Because she needed work so desperately, also because the morning had promised so fairly, she had put on her modest best—her white linen suit, mul-trimmed hat and patent leather ties.

She had been pardoned proud of herself as she stepped from the train at the nearest station. There was nobody to meet her, and her purse forbade even suburban cab fare. Armed with confused directions and the rash confidence of youth, she had set out on foot for Overhill, the Alstyne place—and this was the result!

"Hopelessly drabbled," she said half aloud, looking herself up and down as she spoke. "And at least half a mile to go if this rain ever holds up. Heigho! If everybody be rich why is anybody permitted to own an auto?"

As though answering the question an auto, a big limousine, dashed out of a cross track upon the hard wide roadway—and in making a turn skidded, fetching up, at last, less than two feet from Millicent, but not until it had splashed her almost from head to foot. The muddy puddle which had helped to stay her was at least four inches deep. She had shrunk back but too late—even the tip of her nose had a brown drop on it. Of course, the machine would go past her. How ever would she get back to town?

"Oh, I'm so, so sorry!" a girl's voice said. The door had been flung open. Within it she saw a fair double of herself, a girl, blue-eyed and tall as she was, with the same cleft chin, strait nose and wavy hair. The voice, too, seemed her own, as it went on eagerly:

"Get in! You must! I shall take you home with me—and send you to the laundry."

There was a bubbling laugh after the last word. Millicent got in, and was whisked forward, hardly knowing whether she were awake or dreaming.

Two hours later she was pinching herself to determine. This, although she sat at late luncheon in a fine country house, clothed in fine alien garments, eating strange things. Her double sat opposite her, smiling soft coaxing smiles, and saying every little while:

"You will! That's a darling! I'll love you forever and ever—and it can't be half so bad, no matter how it turns out, as being a governess—those Alstynes children are young savages."

Two days later, still dazed, but full of inward chuckling, she was welcomed by an elderly couple as their dear grand-niece, Lily Haughton. They were childless, but had a grand-nephew for company, a tall, severely handsome young person, who looked as though he did not know how to laugh.

"I hear he's a frost and a funeral—one this Arden Gloster." Lily Haughton had explained to Millicent.

Lily, orphan and heiress by nature lawless, by bringing up much oppressed, had been due to visit the kindfolk she had not seen since childhood, when her heart was set upon another excursion.

"You need work—I've got a perfectly good checkbook—and a book of the family that will tell you about it all the way to Adam," she had said.

"You can have any money you want, to stay six weeks there. Arden Gloster is sure not to make love to you—he thinks it beneath him to do such things. He thinks, too, he is going to marry me, when he's good and ready—so as to get the blessing and the fortune of our elders."

Millicent had at first scouted the idea—then all at once fallen in with it ardently. She needed rest—in six weeks the summer would be almost over—the money Lily thrust upon her would keep her comfortable until she found work in the theaters. She had spent her small inheritance upon a course at the dramatic school—governessing had been only a stopgap.

"She would do no wrong—Lily assured her, indeed, that she would be doing good instead. 'We're so much alike, Arden won't ever know the difference when he comes to tell me he is ready to marry me,' she said. 'And I shall never, never go to Glenville—and I shall go somewhere else and be heavenly happy, just as myself, not the rich Miss Haughton. I've never had such a chance before. Do help me take it.'

Life went easily at Glenville. Millicent was blissful all through the first fortnight. She rode, drove, walked, with the old folk, suiting herself to their needs and tempers. Consequently they grew so fond of her, her conscience awoke and pricked sharply.

She gave hardly a thought to young Gloster—he was writing a book upon political corruption, and spent most of his time in the tower room three stories in air.

But Madame Haughton was full of talk about him—how good and true he was, what hopes they built upon him. She was too delicate to do more than stir lightly over the family plan, even in showing the incomparable diamonds destined for "Arden's wife."

She made costly gifts to Millicent—gifts it was impossible to refuse without exciting comment. Millicent took them feeling like a thief, saving her conscience with promises to pass them on to the right Lily. But she could never pass on the loving thought which enveloped her, and made her pine to confess herself an impostor.

At last two things happened: Arden finished his book, and began ardent lovemaking. The process transfigured him—he became not merely human but fascinating. Millicent had had experience of the great game in the course of her twenty-two years, and told herself, quite candidly, he played it to admiration.

He came to her after a fortnight's playing, in the adorable old garden that seemed made for lovers.

"Such a pity!" he said gently, taking both her hands. "We can't have a bit of romance—our true love runs so smooth."

"I'm sure I don't know what you mean!" Millicent retorted, trying to free her hands.

"No!" he said, his eyes laughing and incredulous. "You don't know that by loving each other we please the finest pair in the world—and inherit a million!"

"Let go my hands! I—I—won't listen!" Millicent burst out.

He caught her in his arms—there upon his breast she told him everything, ending abjectly: "Please, please, let me go away before you tell the old folk. They have been so good to me I can't bear to see their eyes full of contempt."

"But I must tell them," Arden protested. "And at once! Foolish little girl, do you think I shall e you go, no matter what your name is?"

"It's like a fairy tale come true," Lily, the real Lily said three weeks later; but she was no longer Lily Haughton. She had come to Glenville in convoy of her new husband, Jimmy Page, artist.

"Jimmy held out against me until he saw what a cook I was, in camp. Lily ran on. "I've been trying for a year to make him propose—now all of us will live happy ever after."

CONTRAST ON OREGON TRAILS

Seattle Capitalists Traveling In This Modern Day With Touring Car and Auto Truck.

In contrast to the caravans that traversed the Oregon valleys fifty years ago a party from Seattle left Portland the other morning for an extensive trip through the southern part of the state and California in automobiles, says the Portland Oregonian. The equipment consisted of a big touring car and a large auto-truck on which was a complete kitchen, ice-box, hair mattresses and all the comforts of home, in charge of a professional chef.

The party consisted of Mortiz Thomsen, E. Cardin, R. R. Spencer and M. H. Young, Seattle capitalists who are seeking rest and recreation on a tour that will lead them away from all business and care. They left Seattle with their equipment, but the roads were so rough that the two big machines were shipped from Kelso to Portland. At 10 o'clock yesterday morning the party left the Oregon hotel with no particular destination in view. The members have a supply of fishing tackle, guns and ammunition and will spend several weeks in the mountains of Oregon and California, where fishing and hunting are good.

The chef is also a chauffeur and has charge of the truck. His kitchen is complete in all details. When a stop is made over night or for a few days camping sleeping tents and a dining tent are unloaded. The party will probably return to Seattle by a different route.

HERBINE

For the Bowels

A Cure for Chronic Constipation, Torpid Liver and Irregular Bowel Movements.

Constipation is the most common disorder of the bowels. It affects both sexes and all ages but is more prevalent among women because their duties in the household require less physical exercise than the occupations of men; therefore women suffer most from its baneful effect.

A constipated person is an easy victim when exposed to any serious disease—Pneumonia, Typhoid Fever, Malaria, Rheumatism, Small Pox, Yellow Fever and Bright's Disease gather their annual harvest of death among those who are habitually constipated. Even though they escape these diseases, such persons are always ailing more or less. They have headaches, bad digestion, dizziness, vertigo (blind staggers), sallow complexion, flatulence, loss of strength; and no energy at all. Herbine has a most admirable effect in the bowels; it is cooling, purifying and regulating. It puts a prompt check on biliousness, wind in the bowels, nervousness, heartburn, bad breath, low spirits, drowsiness in the day-time and nervous wakefulness at night.
